

ED BLUNT is the founder of BluntArtistry, a company that specializes in Life Design for Greater Futures.

Blunt began his incredible journey performing on stages in England, Russia and throughout America. Forging working relationships with Pulitzer Prize-, Tony Award-, Grammy Award- and Academy Award-winning giants, Blunt garnered critical acclaim as a classically-trained stage and film actor. Shortly after dedicating himself to the professional speaking industry, Ed Blunt made an auspicious debut sharing the stage with Les Brown, training for T. Harv Eker's Peak Potentials and being a featured speaker for George Fraser's International Frasernet. Having already done extensive work with the pharmaceutical giant Novo Nordisk, Blue Cross Blue Shield, Columbia University Medical College, Yale University, the Trinidadian Congress and Another Choice among many others, Blunt has served notice with his inspirational style and applicable tools. With a fresh voice of imagination, impact and concrete examples, Blunt challenges businesses and organizations to live up to and beyond the Life Design Blueprint™ that he creates with them. Most recently seen on the Word network and in Upscale magazine!

"I suppose I could tell you about some of the challenges I've overcome. I could tell you about growing up in a household of mental illness, severe depression and domestic violence. I could tell you what it was like to look down the barrel of a gun pointed at my head or I could tell you about the humiliation of being a failing student. I'd rather share with you the process that I developed to emerge from those challenges, to live a successful life of my own design, producing results beyond my wildest expectations! I've never met anyone who didn't have challenges, but I've met many who didn't have an adequate life design to overcome them." -- eb
